Director Rainey asked about the basic organizational structure post-integration; Mr. Landau explained the division of responsibilities between BBP and the Conservancy. Director Meyers asked for more details on the difference between the capital and maritime reserves; Mr. Landau explained that the maritime reserve is intended for all water related projects and the capital reserve is for all other capital projects. Director Archer asked for an explanation of the revenue escalation and whether it is due to development site payments for base rent or PILOT; Mr. Landau explained that the development sites all include annual escalations of both base rent, and that PILOT is calculated and provided by the New York City Department of Finance. Vice Chair Hyman asked if the PILOT formula changes; Mr. Landau explained that it did not.

Director Gutman complimented the staff for the last year's successful operation, asked about safety related to the removal of scaffolding under the Manhattan Bridge, and asked whether BBP collected additional fallen items from the Manhattan Bridge. Mr. Landau explained that with the climbing wall concession and dog run closed, and with all park benches removed from the area, park patrons do not congregate in the area for long periods of time and that BBP was guided by the New York City Department of Transportation's position. Mr. Landau confirmed that BBP collected additional debris fallen from the Manhattan Bridge, when the scaffolding was removed, but not of the size previously seen.
